Character and Competence Staff Report
Project# 222102

Attachment C - Workforce Review

1. What is the current availability of professional/paraprofessional workers to staff your program? Who are the competing employers? How do you propose to successfully compete? Include training, recruitment, and transportation strategies. How do you coordinate with the Department of Labor or any other local workforce initiatives?

Edison Response:

NAE Edison LLC (DBA Edison Home Health Care, or "Edison") has a strong track record of hiring and retaining home health aides and personal care aides (together, "HHAs") to sufficiently staff its programs to meet the needs of its patient caseload and provide high quality care. NY CHOW - DOH RFAI About LHCSA Staffing Edison's operations are concentrated in the 5 boroughs of New York City which are dense geographies with numerous home care and health care providers, as well as other competing employers. When hiring HHAs and administrative staff, Edison is often competing against providers of personal care services, other health care organizations, such as hospitals and health care facilities, and employers in other industries with similar pay. Despite these competing employers within the same market, Edison has had success identifying, recruiting and retaining HHAs who, in addition to seeking competitive compensation and benefits, are often attracted to inhome care due to the rewarding impact associated with the work and the flexibility that the hourly, patientcentric work offers. To attract and retain employees, Edison offers competitive base wages and strong benefit programs, including major medical and MEC offerings, supplemental benefit options (e.g., dental, vision, dependent care, pharmacy benefits, flex cards which can be used for, among other benefits, transit costs, etc.), paid time off, paid sick and safe leave, paid holidays, paid new hire orientation, and 14 hours of paid annual inservice training (2 paid hours above state requirements). Administrative employees also have access to retirement programs. Edison expects to make retirement programs available to HHAs before the end of 2023. Edison also offers hybrid in-person / virtual in-service training options to ensure ease of access for its staff. Edison has eight (8) strategically located office locations within its service areas across the state of New York. Within the five boroughs, these offices are located in close proximity to public transportation to support ease of access for its employees. Edison also makes a concerted effort to optimize patient staffing based on each HHA's preferred geography to both reduce commute time and align patients with HHAs from similar neighborhoods. Edison uses a number of methods to identify potential hires, including a dedicated field recruiting team, job postings on third party hiring sites (e.g., Indeed), long-term relationships with HHA training schools, community outreach and job fairs, HHA focused community initiatives and investments (e.g., annual fundraiser to provide back-to-school supplies to HHAs and local schools), and word of mouth referrals. Edison has built an optimized, digital application process to facilitate seamless applications and expedite its ability to onboard potential new hires. Through its effective and sustained recruiting, hiring and retention efforts, Edison has been able to maintain sufficient staffing of patient cases, minimize missed and cancelled visits, and sustain its commitment to providing high-quality care to its patients.

2. What impact will the initiation/expansion of your program have on the workforce or other health care providers in the community? How will you minimize any adverse impact?

Edison Response:

There is no expectation of adverse impact to the workforce of Edison due to the change of ownership to Help at Home. Help at Home is the largest national provider of high-quality, personal home care services in the US and offers competitive wages, robust benefits and training, and opportunities for HHA career advancement. Help at Home has established itself as a leader in effectively recruiting and retaining employees, and has a track-record of making significant investments in workforce-focused initiatives as set forth in greater detail in the response to Question 3 below.

3. What measures will you adopt to promote retention of specific categories of your workforce?

Edison Response:

Help at Home will seek to leverage its market-leading expertise in hiring and retaining HHA workforces to build on the existing, proven recruiting and retention practices of Edison. Help at Home has made significant investments in tools and programs to support its workforce, including initiatives such as reward and recognition programs, enriched benefit offerings, including access to retirement plans and an Employee Assistance Program, monthly employee satisfaction surveys, formalized new hire outreach at key post-hire milestones (first shift, 1 week post-hire, 2 weeks post-hire), deployment of a robust application tool and onboarding model to transform the HHA candidate hiring experience, and a Community Foundation which is a 503(c)(3) not-for-profit organization established to provide financial support to those in need within Help at Home's workforce. As soon as it is able, Help at Home expects to evaluate the viability of deploying its suite of recruiting and retention programs to support the workforces of Edison.

Attachment C - Workforce Review

1. What is the current availability of professional/paraprofessional workers to staff your program? Who are the competing employers? How do you propose to successfully compete? Include training, recruitment, and transportation strategies. How do you coordinate with the Department of Labor or any other local workforce initiatives?

Preferred Response:

Assistcare Home Health Services, LLC (DBA Preferred Home Care of New York, or "Preferred") has a strong track record of hiring and retaining home health aides and personal care aides (together, "HHAs") to sufficiently staff its programs to meet the needs of its patient caseload and provide high quality care. Preferred's operations are concentrated in the 5 boroughs of New York City which are dense geographies with numerous home care and health care providers, as well as other competing employers. When hiring HHAs and administrative staff, Preferred is often competing against providers of personal care services, other health care organizations, such as hospitals and health care facilities, and employers in other industries with similar pay. Despite these competing employers within the same market, Preferred has had success identifying, recruiting and retaining HHAs who, in addition to seeking competitive compensation and benefits, are often attracted to in-home care due to the rewarding impact associated with the role and the flexibility that the hourly, patient-centric work offers. To attract and retain employees, Preferred offers competitive wages and strong benefit coverage options, including major medical and MEC offerings, supplemental benefit options (e.g., dental, vision, critical illness, accident, flex cards, which can be used for commuter benefits, FSA eligible expenses, certain personal goods, and dependent care, among other benefits, etc.), employee wellness programs, paid time off, paid sick and safe leave, paid new hire orientation, and paid in-service training. Preferred also offers same day pay as an option to its employees. Administrative employees have access to retirement programs. Preferred expects to make retirement programs available to HHAs before the end of 2023. To reduce the upfront burden of becoming a certified HHA, Preferred extends support to new hires in a number of ways including HHA certification training, coverage of costs associated with medical exams required for certification, and a sign-on bonus for hired HHAs who achieve minimum hours and retention milestones post-hire. Preferred also offers virtual in-service training to ensure ease of access for its staff. Preferred has eight (8) strategically located office locations within its service areas across the state of New York. Within the five boroughs, these offices are located in close proximity to public transportation to support ease of access for its employees. Preferred also makes a concerted effort to optimize patient staffing based on each HHA's preferred geography to both reduce commute time and align patients with HHAs from similar neighborhoods. Preferred uses a number of methods to identify potential hires, including a dedicated field recruiting team, job postings on third-party hiring sites (e.g., Indeed), long-term relationships with HHA training schools, community outreach and job fairs, local, city and state workforce initiatives (e.g., NYC Department of Small Business Services Workforce1 Career Centers), and word of mouth referrals. Preferred has built an optimized, digital application process and onboarding platform to facilitate seamless applications, expedite its ability to onboard potential new hires, and manage the full life cycle of the process from candidate lead to hire. Through its effective and sustained recruiting, hiring and retention efforts, Preferred has been able to maintain sufficient staffing of patient cases, minimize missed and cancelled visits, and sustain its commitment to providing high-quality care to its patients.

2. What impact will the initiation/expansion of your program have on the workforce or other health care providers in the community? How will you minimize any adverse impact?

Preferred Response:

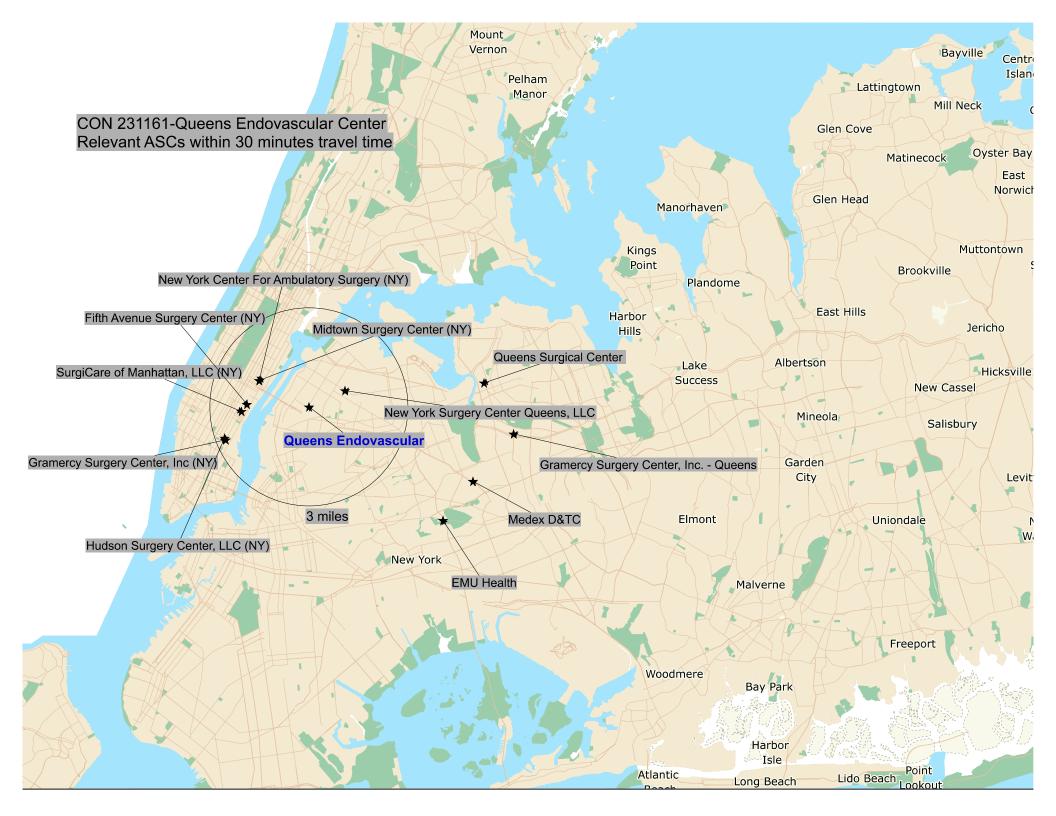

There is no expectation of adverse impact to the workforce of Preferred due to the change of ownership to Help at Home. Help at Home is the largest national provider of high-quality, personal home care services in the US and offers competitive wages, robust benefits and training, and opportunities for HHA career advancement. Help at Home has established itself as a leader in effectively recruiting and retaining employees and has a track-record of making significant investments in workforce-focused initiatives as set forth in greater detail in the response to Question 3 below.

3. What measures will you adopt to promote retention of specific categories of your workforce?

Preferred Response:

Help at Home will seek to leverage its market-leading expertise in hiring and retaining HHA workforces to build on the existing, proven recruiting and retention practices of Preferred. Help at Home has made significant investments in tools and programs to support its workforce, including initiatives such as reward and recognition programs, enriched benefit offerings, including access to retirement plans and an Employee Assistance Program, monthly employee satisfaction surveys, formalized new hire outreach at key post-hire milestones (first shift, 1 week post-hire, 2 weeks post-hire), deployment of a robust application tool and onboarding model to transform the HHA candidate hiring experience, and a Community Foundation which is a 503(c)(3) not-for-profit organization established to provide financial support to those in need within Help at Home's workforce. As soon as it is able, Help at Home expects to evaluate the viability of deploying its suite of recruiting and retention programs to support the workforces of Preferred.
