Pasteurized Donor Human Milk

Description

Maternal breast milk is the preferred food for almost all infants, regardless of gestational age or weight at birth. However, when babies are born prematurely their mothers often do not have sufficient breast milk for them and supplementation or sole feeding with either donor human milk or preterm infant formula is required. Pursuant to the 2017-18 Enacted Budget, pasteurized donor human milk (PDHM) is a mandated benefit. Therefore, the NY EBBRAC will not make a coverage recommendation, but will review the evidence surrounding the use of PDHM.

References

Topic Description and References

June 2017 NY EBBRAC Meeting

Excluded on Full-Text Review

Included Studies

