

Structural Competency Certificate Program (free) through UAlbany SPH

(I just posted this as a reply in the Cultural Competency discussion group, so my apologies if you're reading this twice). I want to let everyone know about a free, online certificate program with CEUs now available through School of Public Health's Center for Public Health Continuing Education. We have decided to push the concept of cultural competency to structural competency, which is the ability of practitioners to recognize and respond to the ways in which broad social, political and economic structures contribute to the vulnerability and ill health of the individuals and communities we serve. There 4 series certificates in the program: American Indian, Latino/a, African American and Black, and Asian/Asia Pacific Islander. Certificates are available now for the American Indian and Latino Series. Each series has 4 courses (webinars) and there are 2 global pre-requisites. You can also get CEUs for each individual course. Dr. Mindy Fullilove will be giving the first webinar in the African American and Black series on Oct 19. I just confirmed that yesterday so it's not on the website yet. For more information and to register, go to: www.advancingccc.org . Here's a link to the webinar the introduces the concept, by Dr. Sayantani DasGupta of Columbia University's Narrative Medicine Dept. http://www.albany.edu/sph/cphce/advancing_cc_webinar_mar15.shtml . Please feel free to contact me if you'd like any further information. My direct office line is 518-474-2285; email is ecampisi@albany.edu. The program is funded by a grant from the NYS DOH.

Message by Elizabeth Campisi

0

On september 11, 2015 at 09:27 - 57 views, 1 reply, 2 followers

community-based organizations cultural competency structural competency health literacy
population health minority health

Thank you Elizabeth for sharing this program!

By Patricia Podkulski, 5 months ago

0

Reply to this contribution...