SSI-RELATED DEEMING OF RESOURCES

Administration. If a child is living with only one parent, the resource level for an individual applies ($2,000). If the child is living with both parents, the resource levels for a couple apply ($3,000). Resources in excess of these levels are deemed available to the SSI-related child (if there is more than one SSI-related child in the household, the deemed amount is distributed equally among them). The deemed resources are added to the child's own resources (if any) and compared to the medically needy resource level for one on found in the REFERENCE MEDICAID RESOURCE LEVEL.

The deeming of parental resources to an SSI-related child does not reduce the countable resources available to the parents when determining eligibility for them.

Unlike income budgeting for SSI-related persons, there is no allocation of resources to non-SSI-related children in the household.
